

Press release

Chantilly, 31st January 2007

“Horse, Dream and Poetry” at the Living Museum of the Horse

It has become a tradition, that on the first Sunday of every month at 3.30 p.m., the riders and horses of Chantilly's Living Museum of the Horse become actors for the day, presenting to the public an equestrian show with lights, music and costumes. Venice Carnival, Liberty, Amazon, Spain, Russia, Harlequin... This lively, poetic show is composed of a series of animated paintings, which aim to represent a voyage through time and the world of dreams.

The first Sunday of every month, at 3.30 p.m., Venice, Harlequin, 17th century, Tandem, Capriole, Liberty...

A dozen scenes, derived from the best equestrian acts since 1984, and some new ones, punctuate the show. All the low school and high school airs and a few dressage 'fancies', on show to the public.

“Horse, Dream and Poetry” is acted out following the educational equestrian presentation at 3.00 p.m.

For information and reservations: +33 (0)3 44 57 40 40 or www.museevivantducheval.fr

Prices: 13 years and over: €20*
4 to 12 years: €15*

* The ticket includes a tour of the Living Museum of the Horse and the dressage presentation at 3.00 p.m.

On the 1st Sunday of every month, at 3.30 p.m. (except August, October, November & December).
Additional dates: Thursday 17th and Sunday 27th May 2007.

Copyright free photos (jpeg, 300 dpi) are available from the press department.

Press contact: R&B Presse - Daniel Koroloff

Tel.: +33 (0)3 44 620 621

d.koroloff@rbpresse.com